

Food allergen labelling and information requirements under the EU Food Information for Consumers Regulation No. 1169/2011

In accordance with new EU legislation covering allergen provisions for prepacked, prepacked for direct sale, and non-prepacked foods, which can be found in the EU Food Information for Consumers Regulation (No. 1169/2011) (EU FIC), Raymond Reynolds Ltd would like to publish this statement of reassurance for our customers.

All of our wine producers are aware of the new regulations which came into effect on 13th December 2014, and therefore comply moving forward.

Raymond Reynolds Ltd have conducted a survey of our producers, asking them to detail common potentially allergenic additions during production of their wines. Should you need this information, please ask us.

For further information, please refer to the technical guidance sheet on our website. This document details the application of the new policies and contains links to all relevant legislation.
