What is orange wine, exactly? Orange wine is white wine made in a red wine style.

We filled the whole bunches of the first batch into a fermenter for 10 days (mash time).

In the next step the whole bunches were pressed and filled into a cask. The destemmed berries of the other batch were filled together with the press juice of the same pick in another tank for about nine months.

After this time the two tanks were brought together. The colour remember a brilliant, very light amber color determined by the extended grape skin contact. In terms of taste classic texture, very floral and full of minerality. Great drinking flow.
